Special Despatches to The Son.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. BINCKLEY.

The Democratic afternoon paper here prints the following: "Advices received from New York represent Solicitor Binckley as spreading consternation broadcast through the whiskey ring. It seems that documentary evidence has fallen into Mr. Binckley's hands without the knowledge of certain officials here, who have been telegraphing to their New York friends. These telegrams missed their way, and reached Binckley. The docu-ments and telegrams together are said to group beautifully, and the impression is that Binckley will finally sustain the prosecution he has set on foot in New York, in spite of all efforts of money and political influence to sneer him out of court. "The above is believed to have been concocted in New York by Binckley and sent over here. The only telegrem sent by Commissioner Rollins lately with regard to Binckiey was in reply to a one of Binckley's witnesses was. Mr. Rollins replied that ,he was a man who had storen several hundred barrels of whiskey and defrauded the Gov

Mr. Schumeher made the following remarks on the occasion; "Mr. Secretary of State yeaserday to deriver the letter of recall of Mr. Rosing, the regular Chargé d'Affaires. Mr. Schumeher made the following remarks on the occasion; "Mr. Secretary of State—The letter which I have the honor of presenting to you, will inform you of the cause of the withdrawal of the Hanseath mission.

The inferest of the Republics of Lubeck, Bremen, and Hambug will in the future be represented by the Great North German Union of States, and I could not desire them placed in better hands than those of its present distinguished representative. Nevertheless, I cannot nelp regretting that the relations extending over a privated for somany years uninterrupted friendly infercourse, about now be brought to a sudder close, and I believe this feeling is common among the chirens of the Hanseatte Republics and also shared in general by the poons in this country. I trust, however, that the Government of the United States will continue to take a neely interest in the future prosperity of the German sister republics, and that when their representative shall prefer wishes in their name, they will receive the same kind consideration which has always been given to them. I cannot allow tids opportunity to pass without expressing my own appreciation and thanks for many procés of this ricently disposition, of which I have been the recipient while representative shall prefer wishes in their mane, they will receive the same kind consideration which has always been given to them. robbed this morning. Mr. Tuomas Brodhead, proprietor, and his brother Theodore started in pursuit of the robbers, and came upon them on the carriage road, about 50 yards south of this piace. Mr. Thomas Brodhead took hold of one of them and ordered him back, and he appeared willing to go. The other stepped about ten feet away and drew a revolver, when the first said, "Shoot them down." He immediately fired two shots, wounding Mr. Thomas Brodhead in the face and left side, when Mr. Thodo re Brodhead came up, grappled with them, and received a shot through the body, which killed him instantly. Before leaving the murderers pounded Mr. Thomas Brodhead in the head with stones. The murderers are supposed to be frish, and to have hiden in the woods. All the inhabit and so have hiden in the woods. All the inhabit and revoked, and are surrounding the mountains with hopes of their capture.

FRIENDS AND FELLOW CITIZENS: The time is rapidly approaching when you will be called upon to choose whom you will trust for the chief executive power of this nation for the next four years, who shall exercise the law making powers as your representatives in Congress during the next Congressional term. You have never nade a choice a time. or the generous terms they were observed. On the causes that led to the rebellion, and the justification of a mation in prosecuting the war, it is needless here to dwell. They are fresh in your recollection. The graves of 30,000 pairlot solders stain in battle by the rebels are still green. The tears of orphans and widows, and berraved parents still flow, and the maimed and wounded solders around us are living memorials of the cruelty of the rebels in the war sgainst the Government of the United States. You bear in mind, however, that the rebellion was occasioned by a thirty year's conspiracy of those whom Mr. Johnson happily termed the slave-holding oligarchy of the Southern States—an oligarchy based upon the landed monepoly and slave labor. This slave holding aristocracy timisted to extend their resistory and political power, and by extending their system into the free States obtain a monopoly of the fertile land and rich inherals of those States, and attempting to obtain control of the Government.

LETTER FROM COOPERSTOWN.

NEW YORK, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1868,

The Hop Crop in Gisego County-Cooperstown-Judge Nelson-Turn-ant to see a Circus-A Humpbacked Horse-Reminis-cence of the Spotted Fever-A Sick Boy, a Lame Girl, &c., &c.

The price this year is very low, reteen cents. Lat year towas up to stay cents. One man who refused fifty-five cents for his has hast season, and kept them ever, recently sold the same lot for seven cents a pound, which, at the rate that banks realize on their capital, was only the interest money on the price that he might have got.

Even at the present low price, hous, with a good yield, are a profitable crop. It costs about eleven cents a pound to pick and blin-dry them. The price paid for picking this year has been as high as rour, and even five shillings a box. A box contains ten bushels, and a very smart picker can pick four boxes in a day.

The hop invest is a festive season. Many balls and dances are had at the country holels. They are cellent for grazing, and the high price of dury produce for a few years pat has made dairy farming remarkably profitable.

Cooperstown, though it has less than two thousand inhabitants, has the appearance of a town with twice that population. It is a peasant village, and is noted as being the residence of the Hon. Sammel Nelson, formerly Chief Justice of the Hon. Sammel Nelson, formerly Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of New York, and now and for many years past one of the most distinguished Judges of the Supreme Court of the United States. Judge Nelson's name has at times been preminently mentioned in connection with the office of President of the United States.

In the summer season the hotels here are filled up with boarders from the city. To-day the population from the surrounding country, to the number of five risk thousand, has poured into Cooperstown to see the circus. It is the same circus that has so often attracted attention in proving through Breadway with a large live lion mounted on the top of one of the carriages, while another carriage is drawn by cight camels and four horses.

Spenkling of camels, I saw a horse in Albany yesterday shaped very much like a camel. He had a hump on his back about a foot high. It continued around his body, forming a circle, but was most prominent on his back. The horse was larnessed to a wagon, and was travelling through the street. The hump was as great an improvement to his appearance as the Grecian bend is to that of a woman.

Neptunes, Scandal, and Harry Brailsford, were recently brought to the hammer at Fairfield, England. Eighty mares and feals made 15,835 guineas, or an average of nearly two hundred guineas. There was quite a sensation when Blair Athol was led into the ring. He looked magnificent, and was as fresh as possible. As it was known that several foreigners laid come over with the intention of buying him, great fears were entertained that he might leave the country. When, however, it was announced that the eminent breader, Mr. Blenkiron, had bought him for five thousand guineas, after a close contest with Count Renard, the numerous spectators gave vent to their feelings by lond and continued cheers. The celebrated stal-lion will be located at Middle Park, where his rival,

MOUNT VERNON.

Gladiateur, also stands. The total amount realized was 23,155 guineas, being five thousand guineas more than Mr. Jackson had calculated upon.

Among the many thriving villages of the New York suburbs, Mount Vernon, in Westchester county, is by no means the least important. It stands on the line of the New Haven Railrond, only a mile from its junction with the Harlem Railroad, and is but eighteen miles from the City Hall. It was projected by Mr. John Stephens, a tailer in Hudson street, who, in 1851, bought for himself and associates the farms of Sylvanus and Andrew Furdy, and John Hayward, consisting of three hundred acres, and at once surveyed them into lots. The Mount Vernon Hotel and a few houses were immediately built, and from that year until 1853 the energy of the projectors created a rapid growth, with an extension of the village to five hundred acres. A more gradual progress then took place, which was again stimulated in 1865, and during the past three years building has been as constant as during the first three. For the last tweive months property is said to have increased equally with the aggregate of the three years previous, under the stimulus of the anticipated underground railroad and the general demand for suburban residences. The village now contains population of four thousand, and about twelve hun-dred houses. Added to these are eight churches and two public halls, A new Dutch Reformed church of brick is soon to be built at a cost of twenty thousand dollars. The other churches are of wood, with the exception of a stone Episcopal place of worship, which might now also cost $20,000. There are two public schools, for both sexes, accom-modating eight hundred children, and two new schools, of brick, are soon to be added. Four private seminaries also exist, one of which is a boarding school for boys. The industries of the village com-prise three large carriage factories, a pickle preserve ng establishment, a building for chemical works, and glue factory. The streets have all sidewalks, either of plank or asphaltum, and are laid with gas pipes. No water works are most, and are sowers. No police force is yet required. There is one fire three military organizations, consisting of Companies C. E. and I. Seventeenth Regiment National Guard of the Legislature. Prominent among these is that of Mr. Charles Weiss, The largest house existing is that of Mr. Gerard Martine, a sugar refluer of this city. It may be valued at $23,000, without the grounds, which comprise two acres. It is of wood, and has a fine conservatory among its outbuildings. The house of Mr. George Carroll stands in half an acre of garden, and his dwelling at $15,000, and Mr. David Colburn rates his at $18,000. Messrs, Riker, Joseph Quinion, James S. Vancort, and George Crawford have dwellings worth about $12,000, and Messrs. W. H. Broughton and Walter U. Macdonald live in tasteful little houses valued at $6,000.
